"TODAYS EMPLOYEES WANT A COACH NOT A BOSS."

- CLIFTON AND HARTER (2019)

Coaching is a key skill for managers, to get the best out of every team member. When managers become a coach not a boss, employee engagement and performance improves. Improving the coaching skills of one manager has an exponential affect in your workplace, as it increases employee performance, engagement and buy in to your goals.

Leaders who attend this program will be able to have coach-like conversations the very next day. It is a highly practical program where the focus is on lots of practice and support to implement the new learning.

WHO IS IT FOR?

Middle managers, senior managers, team leaders, safety and HR professionals

WHAT WILL LEADERS GAIN?

- Confidence to begin coaching immediately when they are back at work
- Better skills in providing and receiving feedback
- An opportunity to experience the impact of coaching style conversations that focus on real work scenarios
- Deeper understanding and competence in the Solution Focus Coaching Model and Solution Tools
- Improved emotional intelligence
- Commitment and personal action plan to take coaching forward

WHAT IS COVERED?

1. Solution Focus Coaching Model and Solution Tools that support this model
2. Key conversational skills
3. Coaching Way of Being (Emotional Intelligence)

AFTER WORKSHOP SUPPORT

1. Check in Sessions - to provide ongoing support that makes learning stick
2. Coaching Circles - Work with other participants to share learnings and practice new skills
3. Review Session - to determine the impact of the program

My team has been rated one of the best performing teams in the organisation and I put it down to the coaching conversations we have. I empower them by asking questions and getting them to decide what they need to do. This coaching program has been the best training program I have ever done!
